

Think it doesn't matter if you give to United Way this year?

It matters to Edna and Melissa

At age ninety, it means a lot to Edna to be able to stay in her home, surrounded by her memories. She is able to remain independent because of her friend and home health aide Melissa, who helps with light cleaning, laundry and errands such as picking up her prescriptions.

Last year, United Way helped more than 2,000 people over the age of 65 enhance the quality of their life. United Way is also working to keep a roof over the heads of seniors and others experiencing the growing problem of predatory lending and home foreclosure in our community by raising awareness and linking people to services that can help.

Need Help or Want to Help?

It matters to Jenny and Neha

Diagnosed with severe hearing loss when she was three-years-old, Neha attends speech therapy to improve her language skills. Her mom Jenny has seen tremendous improvement in word comprehension and emphasizing the correct syllables when talking.

Last year, 39,151 local children and youth 19-years-of-age and younger were enriched by United Way Partner Agencies. Childhood experiences have a direct impact on future success, and United Way wants to ensure that all children get the support they need to become healthy, productive adults.

Sherry has spent ten years responding to local fires and helping the victims secure emergency housing, food and clothing. Sherry's training in disaster preparedness prepared her to twice answer the call for help after Hurricane Katrina and set up and manage shelters in both Mississippi and Louisiana.

It matters to Sherry

Last year, United Way contributions helped 214,867 children, adults and seniors in the Miami Valley. By meeting the individual needs of our neighbors and enhancing the entire network of services through programs like Helpline 2-1-1 and Volunteer Connection, United Way improves lives and builds a better community.

It matters to all of us

Last year, United Way funded programs touched one out of every three lives in Montgomery, Greene and Preble Counties. As the needs continue to grow, more and more people are turning to United Way Partner Agencies for help.

United Way is keeping a cautious eye on the future as Ohio remains challenged by economic recovery. Right here in our backyard, announcements of plant closings, bankruptcies, foreclosures and businesses leaving the area are covered in the news on a far too regular basis.

The United Way network is more than just a safety net.

It is about investing in the future of our community. It is about intervening in problems and preventing problems before they happen.

Make a Difference.
Make a Donation.

Together, we achieve results that no one can accomplish alone.

Local volunteers direct the available funds to local programs that meet the priority needs of our community and achieve results.
